NOT TO HOLD ANY POST MORTEMS IN BURLINGTON CASE

Coroner Decides Homicide
And Suicide Caused
Deaths

ONE BODY FOUND HERE

Five Youths Discover It Floating in River Near the Bell Property

The body of Mrs. William Solon, 31, 110 Mechanic street, Burlington, N. J., which was found floating in the Delaware river here in front of the property of Dudley E. Bell, was turned over to the Burlington authorities by Chief of Police Jones late yesterday afternoon.

The body was found by five Bristol youths, Gus Sagolia, 521 Penn street; Tony DiBlassio, 345 Penn street; William Tunis, 209 Franklin street; James Esposito, 213 Franklin street; and Frank Pone, 202 Penn street. The five were rowing in a boat when their attention was attracted by the body floating on the surface of the water. The boys pulled the body into the Bell dock and summoned the police. It was viewed by Justice of Peace James Guy and ordered released to the Burlington authorities. It was identified by the Burlington police.

Coroner of Burlington county decided not to hold a post mortem and rendered a verdict of suicide. In the death of the woman's son, William, Jr., 3, whose body was found in the mud along the Burlington shore yesterday morning, the coroner gave a verdict of homicide.

The husband and father, William Solon, 29, was released by both the Burlington police and also Burlington county detective Ellis Parker. Solon was questioned concerning what transpired previous to the dual tragedy. Solon has gone to the home of his sister in Trenton, the city in which both he and his wife lived previous to taking up their residence in Burlington.

Burlington police have stated that more than a month ago Mrs. Solon had turned over to them notes which she stated she found in her husband's pockets, allegedly written by another woman who signed herself "Helen." It is also said that Mrs. Solon had frequently consulted a fortune teller in an effort to find out whether or not there was another woman in the life of her husband.

Mrs. Solon, according to her husband, attempted to choke him early yesterday morning as he slept in the bed beside her. Breaking loose from her clutches Solon ran to police headquarters with five yards of clothes-line dangling from his neck. Mrs. Solon and her baby disappeared in the meantime.

It is believed that the woman drowned the baby along the Burlington shore, throwing the infant into the water. It is thought that she then leaped into the river herself. Some are of the opinion that she leaped from the Pennsylvania side of the Burlington-Bristol bridge, and this is the reason the body was found on this side of the stream.

Wants His Marriage At Doylestown Annulled

TRENTON, N. J., Aug. 8.—(INS)—Alleging that he was tricked into marriage, Clyde L. Fleming, of Milford, Pa., today had asked the Chancery Court to annul his marriage to Verna Schable Fleming, on July 21, at Doylestown, on the ground of fraud.

Fleming testified that he consented to a hasty marriage because his wife told him that her physician had informed her that unless she married at once she would die because of a heart condition. His wife's statement, Fleming said, was corroborated by two of her friends who used their influence to get him to marry.

After the ceremony, Fleming charged, he was informed by his wife's physician that he had advised her that she would endanger her life if she wed.

COUNTY BANKERS ON ANNUAL FARM TOUR

Inspect Four Places in Lower End of Bucks County

VISIT PENNSBURY

Sixty-five persons, members of the Bucks County Bankers' Association, on Monday made their fifth annual farm tour to several places of interest throughout the lower part of Bucks county.

With County Agent William F. Greenawalt as their leader, the members of the party in twenty or more automobiles left Doylestown for the Duckridge poultry farm at Feasterville, this being the first of the four stops made during the day. Here the members of the banking fraternity were shown 6000 laying birds, including the Leghorn and New Hampshire Red varieties. In addition, they saw 5000 pullets on the range and about 700 turkeys.

After completing their inspection the members of the party proceeded to the large farm of the Yeagle Brothers on the Hulmeville road, where they saw about 150 acres, all of which were devoted to trucking crops and potatoes. When the bankers arrived at this large farm they found Mr. Yeagle engaged in spraying potatoes with a 12-row sprayer mounted on a truck.

The third place to have been visited was the Bolton Farms at Emilie, where a lunch was served by the ladies' aid society of the Emilie M. E. Church.

Following the lunch the men inspected the 70 head of purebred Guernsey cattle which included the show herd which in the near future will be on exhibit at various fairs throughout the eastern section of the United States.

Members of the party completed their tour of inspection at the King Farms, near Morrisville, where they saw about 2,000 acres planted in truck crops, including beans, carrots, beets, parsnips, rhubarb, broccoli and spinach. In one field the men saw a gang of 500 bean pickers at work. A large amount of the produce from these farms is marketed in New York, Boston, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Chicago, and Washington, D. C.

While in the vicinity of the King Farms the group stopped to see Pennsbury, the old homestead of William Penn, and which has been donated to the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. At present the State is engaged in restoring the buildings on this place to their original form.

DON'T SEND IN ALARM

It is suggested by Fire Chief James L. McGee that persons seeing the sawdust pile afire in the sixth ward, telephone the fire department instead of sending in a general alarm. The department was called twice to the burning sawdust yesterday.

FINE MERCHANT FOR BLOCKING SIDEWALK

'Bert' Passanante Fined $5.50
at Hearing Before Justice Guy Today

IS GIVEN A WARNING

A campaign to clear sidewalks here of merchandise displays is being waged by the police and the first arrest was made today and the defendant fined $5.50. He was informed that the law imposes a fine of $10 and costs for each day, after the first offense that the violation continues.

The campaign was opened by the police after a group of citizens filed protests with the police committee, claiming that merchants were obstructing the sidewalks and detracting from the appearance of the community by displaying merchandise upon the pavements.

This morning "Bert" Passanante, 1039 Pond street, was summoned before Justice of Peace James Guy by Police Chief Jones.

Jones testified that on Saturday he personally visited the Passanante store and told them that they were violating the law and that the produce and merchandise displayed on the sidewalk would have to be discontinued. Chief Jones informed them that they need not move the display on that day but not to put it out anymore.

The display continued on Monday and again on Tuesday, according to Chief Jones.

Passanante admitted that the testimony was true but said that others were doing it.

Richard Costigan, Tacony, visited his aunt, Mrs. Anna Dugan, Otter street, during the week-end.

HITLER AND COLLEAGUES BEGIN THEIR PROPAGANDA

Preparing Nation for National Plebiscite To Be Held
August 19th

CONDITIONS IMPROVE

BERLIN, Germany, Aug. 8.—The return from Tannenberg and the Hindenburg funeral ceremonies, Reichsleiter Adolf Hitler and his ministry of colleagues set the Nazi propaganda machine at work instantly today to prepare for the National Plebiscite, on August 19th, when the nation will be called upon to ratify his assumption of the presidency. In fact the Minister of Propaganda opened his campaign only a few hours after Von Hindenburg had been entombed in the marshal tower of the great Tannenberg battle memorial.

Over the government radio the Minister of Propaganda broadcast a phonograph record of the late Field Marshal's last public appeal to the German nation when in urging the support of Chancellor Hitler to the referendum that followed Germany's withdrawal from the League of Nations, he pleaded for German unity.

Austria's approval of Vice-Chancellor Von Papen as German minister to Vienna, announced after a fortnight's delay, is accepted here as evidence that the crisis precipitated by the assassination of Chancellor Dollfuss is nearly at an end and that Austro-German, as well as Italo-German relations, are likely to improve within the next few months. It is confidently believed here that Italian troops will shortly be withdrawn from the Austrian border now that Nazi agitation within Austria has died down and the whole central European situation will undergo improvement.

Tilge, 45, another stock broker, was arrested on charges of driving while intoxicated and manslaughter. His wife was held as a material witness. FLIERS OFF TO BAGDAD

Toronto, Canada, Aug. 8.—James Ayling and Leonard Reid, hopped off from Wasaga Beach early today on an attempted non-stop flight to Bagdad. Their plane, the "Trial of the Caribou" in which James and Amy Mollison, British fliers, once intended to make a trans-Atlantic flight, took to the air at 6:12 a. m. and immediately headed northeast.

The plane was heavily loaded, having aboard 600 gallons of gasoline. The fliers believed this supply would carry them through to their goal without stopping if they did not run into head winds for any considerable period of time.

Both the fliers are Canadians. Reid, 36, lived for years in Newfoundland, where his father is manager of a government railway. Ayling, 29, is a former member of the Royal Air Force.

STRIKE GOES TO COURT

By James L. Kilgallen
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)
Minneapolis, Minn., Aug. 8.—Governor Floyd B. Olson and Minneapolis employers involved in the truck drivers' strike, will tangle in Federal Court tomorrow when an injunction suit brought by the employers seeking to restrain Governor Olson from enforcing martial law, comes up for trial.

Governor Olson planned to resist the efforts of the employers to force him to let up on military activities in the strike which the employers say is "stifling business and causing them loss of many thousands of dollars."

The employers showed no indication of meeting the peace proposal offered by the Federal mediators, Rev. Francis J. Haas and E. H. Dunningan. On the contrary, they vigorously attacked the Haas-Dunningan plan asserting if they accepted it, it would be tantamount to surrendering to Communism. Communism, according to the employers, is the big issue in the strike.

National guardsmen meanwhile, on duty, watched closely that employers should not obtain permits to operate any trucks other than those carrying necessities such as milk, ice and fuel, and commodities for hospitals. Business continued to be hard hit.

HIBERNIANS WIN AND TIE FOR FIRST PLACE

Whitewash Cornwells A. A.
Nine by the Score of 4 to 0

KELLER ON THE MOUND

Whitewashing the Cornwells A. A. team, Ralph Keller pitched the Hibernians to their sixth straight victory and into a deadlock for first place in the Lower Bucks County League last night on Leedom's field. Final score of the game was 4-0.

Although pitted against one of the best hurlers in the league, "Hokey" Leighton, Keller was masterful, cool and collective. Several times when it looked as if the Cornwells clan would push a tally across the plate the Tacony youth would bear down and stop those threatening rallies.

Besides fanning six batters, Keller allowed four hits and fielded his position in magnificent style. During the game, three times he nipped runners off bases by fast fielding and throwing on ground ball bounced his way.

EDDINGTON CHURCH FIRE LOSS PLACED AT TOTAL OF $7,000

Flames Destroy Parish Building,
Garage, and Damage
the Rectory

RUBBISH FIRE BEGAN IT

Firemen From Nearby Communities Fight Flames for Over Two Hours

EDDINGTON, Aug. 8.—Fire yesterday afternoon totally destroyed the parish building and garage, considerably damaged the rectory and for a time threatened the church structure of Christ Episcopal Church, here. The damage is estimated at $7,000 and is fully covered by insurance.

The sacred vessels of the church were carried to safety by the Rev. Arthur F. Gibson, rector of the parish.

Firemen from nearby communities with many pieces of fire apparatus fought the flames for over two hours. They saved the church building despite the fact that the roof was sizzling hot and was in danger of catching fire, as the seething flames licked up the other nearby buildings and even ignited the tall and stately trees on the lawn of the property.

One fireman, Harry McCauley, Croydon Fire Company, was burned about the right hand and right side of the face. He was treated at the scene by Dr. Gonzales, of Croydon.

Traffic was blocked along the Bristol Pike and cars were parked on both sides of the highway for two miles on either side of the fire. Hose lines writhed across the highway in snake-like fashion and frequently burst, sprinkling the crowds of curious attracted to the scene. Highway patrolmen diverted traffic around the fire lines and Bell Telephone crews and Philadelphia Electric Company crews clipped wires as a matter of precaution.

Mrs. Gibson suffered from nervous shock. She was the first to see the flames as they burst forth on the roof of the parish building. It is said that sparks from a rubbish fire was the cause.

All of the buildings on the church property located in the center of this community were of frame construction. The flames once they gained headway spread rapidly and were brought under control only by the most strenuous work on the part of the firemen.

Hundreds of feet of hose were laid from the ditch on the property of the St. Francis Industrial School. This ditch drains a large area and a large dam was opened by the school authorities, so as to permit additional water to flow down the stream. The swimming pool used by students of the school was drained. The water was ample to the needs and good streams were provided.

The flames first discovered on the roof of the parish building soon destroyed that structure. The building was 40 by 100 feet, one story high with a single roof. It seated about 200 people and had a stage for entertainments. The contents consisted of chairs and two pianos. The building was about 20 years old.

Next the flames ignited the garage and then the rectory. This was also of frame and was three stories in height. It contained 13 rooms and a bath. The rectory was considerably damaged and some of the contents were ruined. A garage in the rear was destroyed. The rectory was about 40 years old.

Flames spread to the trees nearby and burned the insulation off electric and telephone wires. The roof of the church was afire a number of times and firemen played streams of water upon the structure, which was also of frame.

Immediately upon discovery of the fire Rev. Gibson rushed for the sacred vessels of the church. Some of these were in the parish building and others in the rectory. He carried them all to safety. Neighbors and firemen carried much furniture from the rectory. This was stored on the lawns of nearby residences.

The parish building and contents were insured for $5,000; garage, $400; church property, $12,000, and the parish building for $5,000.

Firemen responding to the call included two companies from Cornwells, Newport, Newportville, Croydon, Hulmeville, Trevose, and Bristol Consolidated.

THE PUBLIC AS CENSOR

The 15-minute appearance of the Dillingers—the father, a son, Hubert, and a daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Emmett Hancock—was received mostly in silence.

This sentence is from a dispatch telling of the appearance in an Indianapolis theatre of the members of the family of America's late most-wanted murderer.

The most effective way to rid the theater—legitimate and movie—of objectionable features is for the public to refuse to patronize them. The members of the Dillinger family have no claim to any special talent that would make them artists capable of amusing or entertaining the public. Their only mark of distinction is in the relation they bore to the man whose blood-smeared career was ended recently by federal agents' bullets in Chicago. Their only appeal could be to morbid curiosity.

The public viewed tolerantly the elder Dillinger's defense of his son when the outlaw was being hunted. It, perhaps, was a bit sympathetic with the old man in the tenderness with which he carried his son's body home and laid it away. Paternal love is a strong thing.

But for the members of the family to seek to exploit and to put to commercial use their relationship to one of the most notorious outlaws in the history of the country seems to be carrying things a little too far. The stage is no place for the Dillingers. For it to be thus used takes on too much the appearance of glorifying crime.

Should silence continue to greet the appearance of the Dillingers, their stage career will be short—as it deserves to be.

THE MILK PROBLEM

Experts agree that the dairy industry suffers not so much from overproduction as from underconsumption and insist that the two are not one and the same thing, although the consequences to the industry may be identical.

Why this underconsumption? The depression. High prices. Thoughtless modern parents. The diet craze. Too many restrictions. There seems to be a general conspiracy against the cow.

Milk should form a part of the daily diet of every man, woman and child. It is essential to proper physical development, to good health and to a balanced diet. Every growing child should consume at least a quart a day, doctors say. And yet 11 per cent. of 10-year-old children drink none at all and 10 per cent. use it only occasionally. One survey found no liquid milk consumed in 7 per cent. of the families.

It seems that there is need for education, commonsense and industrial reorganization here. Here is an industry in which conditions are 100 per cent. unsatisfactory. The farmers want to sell more at a higher price. The distributors want to sell more for more profit. And the consumer should drink more and probably would if the price were lower.

Some homes are spotless and never in disarray, and some are happy places where children live.

A free people is one that has licked a tyrant and become too busy to care who runs things.

COMMUNICATION

Editor, Courier.

Sir:—Is Bristol going to miss her chance to beautify Radcliffe and Mill streets, by allowing the space where car tracks are being taken up to be filled in with black asphalt or some similar material, softer and darker in color than the concrete?

How pretty it would be if these streets were all concrete and of a uniform light grey color all the way across. How much greater width the streets would appear to have if they are not disguised by a wide black space down the center.

Cars are parked at the curb on both sides of the street, with the result that most of the traffic is forced to the center, and with this portion of the street paved with one of the softer and less permanent materials, there will soon be a worn and wrinkled space showing up black and disfigured, in contrast to the light grey color and the smooth surface of the concrete at the sides.

It certainly is not advisable to disfigure a street in this fashion merely to be able to get to water or sewer pipes easier through the softer material. If it was every street in every city would be criss-crossed with a mass of black spaces running in every direction. As a matter of fact this is not done anywhere, the beauty and uniformity of the street being of too great importance.

Why allow this to happen? Why should not Bristol have streets as beautiful or more beautiful than other cities? Bristol has more beautiful natural surroundings than most cities, being along the river as it is.

We read a lot about beautifying Bristol, but it looks as if the biggest chance of all is about to slip by.

BACK OF THE SYMBOL

WHEREVER you see this sign, the whole nation is at hand—within your reach.

Back of this symbol are a million people—the people who own and the people who operate the telephone business of the nation. They are the Bell System.

With their families, if all lived in Pennsylvania, they would constitute a city the size of Philadelphia, plus an Allentown, an Altoona, an Erie, a Harrisburg, a Reading, a Scranton, a Wilkes-Barre and, in addition, two cities as great as Pittsburgh.

The owners have invested savings—an average of $3,000 each—in Bell System securities. The workers have invested their effort and ability in the telephone industry. More than a hundred thousand have done both—workers who are share-holders in the telephone business.

Back of that emblem is a telephone plant—well built, well maintained, adequate, and rendering the finest telephone service in the world.

Back of the symbol is the Bell Telephone Laboratories, birth-place of telephone invention and development.

Back of it is the Bell System headquarters organization, where nation-wide telephone experience is studied, co-ordinated, and made available to all parts of the system.

BELL owners and Bell workers are in every section of the state and nation. They are your friends, your neighbors, interested in things civic, in their government, in the telephone business.

By the service you know it best. To the encouragement of your fullest and most exacting use of that service the telephone organization devotes itself.

THE BELL TELEPHONE COMPANY OF PENNSYLVANIA

Associated with the Bell System—participating in and benefiting from the telephone research, telephone development and nation-wide telephone experience which have given America the world leadership in telephone service.

NEWPORT ROAD NINE LOSES TO W. ELEPHANTS

Last night on Newport Road field the White Elephants defeated Newport Road by the score of 7 to 6. In a game that started out to be a pitching battle for the first five innings. In the sixth inning the Elephants scored six runs in singles by Neitzel, Cummons, Williams and Speel's triple, and Hughes' sacrifice hit and errors by Walker on Hamm's bunt. Tryon's singles and a hit by Devine gave them six runs. The Men's Club came back and got to Catcher Hughes who was pitching a good game, for a walk and three singles for three runs. With one out Hughes then put Tryon in to pitch and he stopped them cold on grounders to Williams and Neitzel. Tomorrow night the Elephants will play McDevitt's All-Stars on the Bath Road field.

CALLS OFF GAME

Manager John Mulholland last night stated that he has called off the game between Bristol A. A. and Huimeville scheduled for tomorrow night here. Mulholland claims he has several players injured on his club.

BOBBIE SALL ENTERS RACES AT LANGHORNE

Bent on a spectacular comeback which he hopes will enable him to retain his Eastern A. A. dirt track auto race championship, Bobbie Sall filed his entry today for the title race to be staged at the Langhorne Speedway on Saturday, and notified officials that he will drive his new McDowell Special.

The Langhorne event will mark the first workout of the high-powered speed creation on a mile track. Bobbie has had the new mount for about a month. It arrived just too late for the June Langhorne event and Bobbie was forced to sit most of that race out as the machine he borrowed at the last minute for use then just couldn't stand the pace.

It was the lack of a really good car at the outset of the campaign which caused the Jersey youth to get off to a poor start. But since the McDowell arrived, Bobbie has been going places and doing things with it.

The costly machine, which embraces all the latest features of racing jobs, is regarded as being particularly adapted for mile track competition. While it has been earning a handsome income for Bobbie, winning fairly often, it should be even more effective on a mile track, where its speed can really be opened up.

"I am particularly anxious to win at Langhorne this race," Bobbie said in a letter that accompanied his entry. "The last time I rode at Langhorne I just couldn't do a thing. You know I had a borrowed car. But this time I will have a 'job' built to order for mile courses, and if I don't take first place, it won't be the fault of the machine."

Bobbie will be stacked up against some fast company in the coming Langhorne sprint races. Included among the early entrants are Al Gordon, hard-riding Pacific Coast sensation; Johnny Hannon, leader in the fight for Sall's Eastern title, and Billy Winn, the Missouri Mite, who will be driving his new Miller.

BENEFIT GAME HERE ON LEEDOM'S FIELD TONIGHT

The Bristol Twilight League All-Stars will meet the Hibernians, of the Lower Bucks County League, tonight on Leedom's field in a benefit game for Joe Mulligan, Damp Wash A. A. player, who was injured several weeks ago.

Manager McDevitt, of the Hibs, has asked all his players to report in time for tonight's fray as he does not want the Twilight Leaguers to score a win on his team.

Last night, Manager Dolan announced that he has added another outfielder to his list, that player being Frank Fields, of the St. Ann's team. Game will begin at 6.30 o'clock.

Hibernians Win And Tie For First Place

"Hokey" Leighton again received a tough break in pitching. Leighton's fling was good enough to pack away an ordinary ball game but with Keller setting down his mates, Leighton could not hope for much more than a scoreless tie which would have taken place had he been given errorless support.

Schnader To Campaign In Both Ends of State

Attorney General William A. Schnader, Republican candidate for Governor, will carry his appeal for a vigorous, capable and experienced administration of Pennsylvanians into both ends of the state this week.

Following a radio address from Philadelphia on the subject "Outdoors in Pennsylvania" at noon Monday, he will go to Harrisburg, then swing toward the western border.

On Wednesday he will speak at a picnic at Meadville, under the auspices of the Crawford County Republican Committee, attended by more than 5,000 persons, among them prominent leaders and other Republicans from Erie, Warren, Mercer, Venango and nearby counties.

On Thursday, August 9, Mr. Schnader will address 15,000 persons at the Annual Sunday School Field Day to be held at Curwensville in Clearfield County. In the evening he will speak at Legion Day exercises in Six Mile Run, Bedford County, attended by veterans and their friends from many nearby communities.

On Friday, August 10, the Attorney General will motor to South Mountain Fair Grounds, Adams County, where he will address a Young Republican Rally.

On Saturday, he will proceed to Shanksville, Somerset County, where more than 5,000 persons from both Somerset and Bedford will hear him at the Annual Picnic of the Stonycreek Valley Community Association.

Mr. Schnader carried a vigorous message into the Central and Eastern counties of Pennsylvania during the past week. Speaking to county leaders assembled in Harrisburg last Thursday, he declared that a special session of the Legislature is not necessary, and that if one is called it will mean an unnecessary expenditure of public funds totaling nearly half a million dollars.

He outlined a plan which would pledge him and members of the Legislature to meet the Federal Government's demands at the regular session of the Assembly next January, and called upon the Democratic nominee for Governor to take a similar stand. A resolution opposing an extra session was adopted at the meeting.

"If Pennsylvania," said Mr. Schnader, "must pay 50 per cent. of the cost of relief it will be paying more than a great majority of the States are expected to pay. The Federal money borrowed on the credit of the people of the United States and of which future generations of Pennsylvanians will be required to pay back at least 10 per cent. We are at their mercy if they insist on giving Pennsylvania a raw deal."

Mr. Schnader informed the meeting that he wanted it understood he would stand or fall with the whole ticket.

"Our Democratic friends try to make it appear the Republican candidates are going it alone," he said. "Nothing could be further from the truth. In all my public speeches I have emphasized, and shall continue to emphasize, the vital necessity of electing in November every Republican candidate, State and National."

Discussing a published threat of the Democratic nominee that if elected he would clean out all Republicans to make places for deserving Democrats, Mr. Schnader declared, "That means that men and women who, through years of service, have become governmental experts, would be ousted. I have no hesitancy in saying that would be disastrous to the government of the State."

At an enthusiastic Republican Rally in Shade Gap, Huntingdon County, on August 3, the Attorney General told a large audience that the farmers and consumers of Pennsylvania are "outraged" by the Federal processing tax. For that reason, he said, the issue of the present campaign can be expressed in one word, "Pennsylvania."

"Pennsylvania is helping the Federal government support the western and southern farmers," he said. "I think we should begin to think about supporting ourselves."

Reaffirming his belief in the value of experienced public officers, Mr. Schnader explained that the Republican party and its state ticket are trained for state government.

"The party," he said, "is equipped to carry on the great work it has been doing for our people during the last forty years."

"We should cooperate in every reasonable way with the Federal government in any practical economic recovery projects. But cooperation is entirely different from subordination. I am opposed to permitting our Pennsylvania affairs to be subordinated. I see no reason for Pennsylvania to be dominated and controlled by persons outside the state, whatever their official positions may be."

"The best support which can be given the Federal government by the State government is to have the State government efficiently administered by officers who understand the problems of the State and the operation of its government."

"Those are the types of candidates that the Republican party is offering the voters of Pennsylvania."

attending the picnic of the Lost Creek Community Park Association on Saturday afternoon, the Attorney General stressed experience as a preparation for state office.

"The Republican ticket is presenting candidates who have had experience in the work of our state government," he said. "Our opponents are trying to hitch-hike in the rumble seats of Federal cars."

"The candidates on the Republican ticket will not be 'yes men' for the Federal government. They will fight for the right of our people to determine for themselves the policies which should be followed in handling that portion of government which was not surrendered to the Federal government when the Constitution was adopted."

"We all believe in the principle of home rule as applied to local government. We believe that our counties, our cities, our boroughs, our school districts and our townships should, as nearly as possible, have the right to govern their own affairs as their own people wish them governed."

"It is even more important that
